EDITOR'S CHAIR.

HOW THINGS LOOK FROM OUR STAND POINT.

The Opinion of The Editor and the Opinion of Others which we Can Endorse on the Various Topics of the Day.

We are wondering that many of our politicians don't get on a strike.

We are living now in a critical period of our history. To neglect one's duty is positively criminal.

Our grain gamblers, land sharks, loan sharks, trust sharks and all sharks who pirate off from the producing closer can well see schemes and tendencies both "nihilistic" and "chaotic" in the Reform moyement, for it strikes at the very root of their existence.

The people are aflame with the spirit of reform. They are fully aroused. They see the danger. They know the special privileged class will not surrender without desperate struggle—it would not be natural to be otherwise. It is very easy to believe in a system if one profits by it. So it is with the privileged number of our government.

Down with the tariff, the pirate of honest industry and toil. Down with a discriminating financial system. Down with monopoly and trust and those who belong to them. Down with the party and men who will not relieve the people or listen to their appeals of want and distress and outrages. Down with that man who sees no good in the people, and believe they are capable of doing and acting only in the wrong.

The News and Observer admits that there is great need for more money, not only more money but money that can not be drawn off to the money centers. It says that the old State bank of issues will give the remedy. The Springfield Republican, a paper that opposes an increase of the currency and fought the free coinage of silver, copies what the News and Observer says and endorses the suggestion that State banks is the remedy. What does this mean?

Mr. Josephus Daniels has written a very timely and wise article, which those self-constituted bosses who are arrogating to themselves the power to apply new test and are trying to keep Alliancemen out of the primaries and conventions, would do well to read and consider. A nomination by the next State Convention, if secured by the dishonest and domineering methods some committeeman and newspapers are running, will not be worth a stiver. It will simply mean the doubtful glory of getting left.

A certain paper in this State that is fighting the Sub-Treasury says, "we need a currency that will stay at home—a currency issued that will be under no chartered exhibition against having loaned to farmers on their lands, the only security they have to offer. The more it is considered, the more feasible and satisfactory this idea will appear." We agree to the above, and he could not have described the Sub-Treasury much better. But that paper like many others and many politicians talks nicely in the abstract, but when the time comes to give the people relief through some measure, then they find hundreds of excuses to do nothing or even to oppose any valuable measure of relief.

We heard a very intelligent man yesterday say something about an article he had just seen in Joe Daniel's paper. Mr. Daniels has no paper now. He has sold the Chronicle and has no connection with it. The Chronicle was bought with somebody's money to boom, it seems, Holt for Governor. It is now nothing more nor less than a personal organ. The paper was no one's organ while Mr. Daniels owned and edited it.

It was broader in its policy, and fairer toward the Alliance and the public generally. It could see some merit in men other those of a certain set. It is sad to see a public journal degenerate to a personal organ of so narrow a policy.

YOUR DUTY.

Don't forget friends, it is not only a privilege of yours, to go into the primaries, but it is a duty. Then lay aside other things and do your duty at the primaries. See that men and measures favorable to your—your ideas of right and justice—receive your support. The plans of some, that you can not go into the primaries because you differ from them on some principles and policies is too ridiculous to even mention. Every man has a right to go into the primaries and work for those principles, and men favorable to his ideas of good government and peace. The n dot,

HEART GROWS SICK.

The National Democrat says of a speech of Mr. Kyle in Congress a few weeks since:

"Mr. Kyle draws a true and patriotic picture of the condition of the cotton producers in Mississippi, taxed still higher by the McKinley bill on their cotton ties, their cotton bagging, their woolen goods and all they consume, and with their cotton selling for less than it cost them to make, called upon to pay a bonus of 2 cents per pound to their neighbors raising sugar and the tribute to the manufacturers of the North, he well remarks: "The heart grows sick at the contemplation of these manifest and indefensible injustices."

SOME SECRETS EXPOSED.

The Progressive Farmer, not being a partisan paper, naturally falls behind in getting political news. But this week we expose some gigantic tricks that are being worked throughout the State. The Alliancemen and farmers generally are determined to capture the "Democratic machine." They ask everybody to help them capture the critter and ride with them.

We are aware that this does not exactly meet the approval of some of our people. Thousands of farmers who have been affiliating with the Democratic party think other arrangements might have been made. To be plain, they think nothing but a new party will fill the bill. Thousands of Republicans in and out of the Alliance, having lost hope in their party, and having no faith in the Democratic party, they naturally want to vote with a new party. To be plain again, we think all of them are right. While we are willing for our demands to go before the national conventions of both the old parties, we have no spark of hope from the monopoly controlled Republican party nor from the New England-controlled Democratic party. We repeat that we have absolutely no hope and cannot advise our friends to depend on them. However, it is different in North Carolina. While our State Government, under twenty years of Democratic rule, has not been all it might have been, has not been perfect, and we need never expect perfection in politics; yet the contrast has been so great between Republican rule from 1866 to 1870, and Democratic rule since, that our people are loth to let loose and risk worse things. Many people will vote the ticket on account of the name, so we want to give them a chance. Another thing: Our complaints are mostly national, hence we can afford to divorce State and National politics.

Now we want to reason a little more with our Republican and Democratic Alliancemen who may not fully agree with this plan. Had any other policy been pursued, it is almost certain that a "straightout" Republican ticket would have been elected in this State, including members of the legislature, and in many cases county officers. Anybody with half sense knows that this would not better things, and possibly would make them vastly worse. No true Alliancemen, be he Republican or Democrat, wants to see things any worse. On the other hand a "straightout" Democratic State ticket might have been elected. This would have been no improvement. Really it would have been making things worse. But if the people will turn out to the primaries and send honest, brave men all through to the State Convention, the State will be saved from both misfortunes and we will get as much reform as through a new party, and not run the risk of losing all chances.

When it comes to selecting Congressmen and Senators and National officers, it will be different. We expect it will be absolutely necessary to elect them on a new party platform. At present we see no other chance. But until this State matter is disposed of we ask every man favoring reform to keep his mouth closed, be he Republican or Democrat. Let's do one thing at a time and proceed cautiously.

Some will say to former Democrats, who are now favoring the new party, that The Progressive Farmer is trying to pull them back into the Democratic party, and to Republicans they will say that it is trying to rope in Republicans and induce them to vote the Democratic ticket. Don't be influenced by them. All who have read this paper know that we have no more confidence in the National Democratic Party than we have in the Republican. We would vote for Harrison or Blaine as quick as we would for Cleveland or Hill. We have no more confidence in many of the Democratic leaders in North Carolina than we have in the Republican leaders in Maine. But it is a condition and not mere sentiment that confronts us here in North Carolina. We cannot afford to risk negro supremacy here. We must do the best we can—choose the lesser of two evils—as it were. If our people will rally to the primaries we will get all we want. Remember that nothing more will be said about your favoring the Ocala or St. Louis platforms. The politicians are sick of that. Go and insist on getting what you want. It is your patriotic duty. You owe it to your country and your family.—Prog. Farmer.

The United States Senate was not in session friday having adjourned from Thursday until Monday next. In the House the recalcitrant members, for whose arrest warrants had been placed in the hands of the sergeant-at-arms, made their appearance, put in a variety of excuses for their absence, and were excused. One of them, Mr. Meredith, of Virginia, acknowledged being at the race course. He had gone there to see whether there was anything demoralizing in racing in order that he might draw up a measure to remedy any evils that might exist. In response to an inquiry Mr. Meredith confessed that he had gone out to the race course on two previous occasions, but remarked that he "had paid his expenses." Another member's walk with some of his constituents in whom he was interested—his wife and children—was also deemed a sufficient reason. During a colloquy in regard to the failure of the republicans to answer a roll-call. Mr. Bailey inquired whether Mr. Reed and his friends were not violating the clause of the constitution which requires Representatives to vote unless excused. Mr. Reed replied that the constitution did not authorize the House to override its provisions. This House had deliberately overridden the constiton by requiring a voting quorum instead of a present quorum; and it was this that had made the House a laughing stock for Gods and men.

The Congressional matinee opened on Monday with a tilt between Speaker Crisp and ex-Speaker Reed, the latter endeavoring to make the Speaker personally count the House instead of accepting the count of the clerk, which Speaker Crisp refared to do.

Senator McPherson Wednesday introduced a proposed amendment to the naval appropriation bill, authorizing the construction of three double-turret, iron or steel harbor-defense vessels of the monitor type, of at least 7,500 tons' displacement and a speed of fifteen knots, in place of the single cruiser proposed by the House bill.

Mr. Gage, of Chicago on Monday made an earnest appeal to the World's Fair Committee, for an appropriation of $5,000,000.

The events of the past week have served to show the democrats of the House the necessity for better discipline.

The result of the New York Republican Convention is generally regarded by Congressmen as a decided set-back for President Harrison.

WHAT THEY ARE AFRAID OF.

The politicians are not often really so much opposed to reform, they are afraid of its incidental effect upon them. It is not relief for the people but "victory" for themselves which is their chief concern.—W. J. P., in Prog. Farmer.

Rheumatism.—James Paxton, of Atlanta, Ga., says he had Rheumatism so bad that he could not move from the bed or dress without help, and that he tried many remedies, but received no relief until he began to use P. P. P. (Prickly Ash, Poke Root and Potassium), and two bottles restored him to health.

TWO POINTS.

GREAT STATESMEN AND WARRIORS.

I.—John Adams, second president of the United States, writes: "A regular well ordered constitution will never fail to bring forth men capable of conducting the national councils and arms. It is of infinitely more importance to the national happiness to have good merchants, farmers and manufacturers than it is to multiply, what are called, great statesmen and great generals."

AND THOMAS JEFFERSON

I.—Based his faith in the success of republican government upon the continued supremacy of a rural population on this continent.—"For," said he, "such a thing as the general corruption of a farming people, we don't read of in history." Farmers are the great conservators of our system, without which the influence of cities would demoralize and disorganize society.—A Linn County (Kan.) Farmer.

ELECTRIC ROADS.

The time will soon come when capitalists building railroads will substitute electricity for steam. We do not know what authority there is for the statement which we find in a leading Cincinnati journal, that "eletricity is soon to be introduced as a motive power on some of the important steam roads"; but we certainly consider the statement one that ought to be true. We ought to have electric roads. Grades count for little with them. Immense bridges to uphold huge engines will no longer be a necessity. The spreading of tracks will probaly cease. Our Cincinnati contemporary says that electric trains could be handled more expeditiously on runs of frequent stops than can trains equipep with clumsy locomotives. Inventors should bear these things in mind.—Richmond Dispatch.

The politicians are having a great deal of trouble trying to decide who has a right to go into the primaries. One of them says: "No man is eligible unless he has always voted the straight Democratic ticket." Another says: "No one is eligible unless he is going to stand by not only what this convention does, but what every other one does that has the same kind of a label on it." Now simply enforce these absurd statements and no party would ever be able to gain a single vote. We thought that the great desire of every party was to gain votes and grow stronger. Away with such bosh! Any man has a right to go into the primaries who does so in good faith.—Ex.

Some newspapers, I see, are attemping to make recognition of the Chicago Convention a test of a man's democracy, and this without knowing or caring what platform that convention will adopt or man they will nominate, and without knowing or caring what action our State Convention will take in this matter. If our convention sends delegates to Chicago we may be bound by the action of that convention. If that convention decides on men and measures adverse to the opinions and interests of our people, it will be impossible to elect our electoral ticket, and the State ticket may go down with it. Some people will never learn till it is too late.—W. J. Peele in Progressive Farmer.

Americans Resent the Conspiracy.

"But as for me, give me liberty or give me death," was the noble spirit that actuated Patrick Henry in his resentment of English domination by a king, and were he alive today he would resent with even more vigor the domination through corrupt and traitorous politicians of England by her gold. Americans do not deserve the name of Americans who do not resent this conspiracy against their liberties.—National Economist.

AT THE CIRCUS.

Masher—I say, is it absolutely necessary that every clound have such a silly face?

Clown—Decidedly! Now if, for instance, I had your face I would get my employer to double my wages instanter.—Kolnische Volkszeitung.

A company has been organized in our town to prepare tar-kiln ready to be fired, to be taken to the World's Fair. An expert tar maker will manage the building and burning of the kiln an the fair. It is to be a thorough North Carolana Tar Kiln of thro olden times and will attract a large crowd and pay handsomely, in our opinion.—Windsor Ledger.

We want no more labor bureaus, unless it can be run to a better purpose than providing a "soft snap" for some office-seeking pap-sucker.

If statesmanship (?) doesn't bring prosperity and happineas to the people, how would it do to try plain, old-fashioned commonsense for awhile?

The Alliance demands a fair chance for every man, rich and poor alike. We want no privileges not granted to others.—Echo.

Rheumatism is cured by P. P. P. Pains and aches in the back, shoulders, knees, ancles, hips and wrists, are all attacked and conquered by P. P. P. This great medicine, by its blood-cleansing properties, builds up and strengthens the whole body.

THE BLACK CAT.

THE MODERN JUDAS OF AMERICAN JOURNALISM.

Rev. Thomas Dixon, Jr., So Characterizes a Prominent Editor Who Prostitutes the Power of the Press and Panders to Vice and Municipal Corruption.

NEW YORK, May 1.—Before his sermon in Association hall this morning, Mr. Dixon reviewed the subject of the vicious tendencies of a certain class of American newspapers. He said:

There are to be found black sheep in nearly every fold. So American journalism has its Black Cat. The animal seems to have grown in size of late. The unusual amount of rich offal seized by it as food in the anomalous temporary developments of our political and social life doubtless accounts for this growth. The development of such a monstrosity is a serious and interesting fact.

The position of an editor of a newspaper of today is as solemn a trust as that of a minister of the Gospel. The press, in fact, has absorbed many of the functions of the minister of religion. The responsibilities of such a position are greater because the number of lives directly effected is greater. He has the power to poison the minds and unnerve the arms of tens of thousands daily with hatred, lies, slanders and appeals to the basest instincts of the animal, or to lift the world from the slumber of the night to the duties of a new day in the arms of love, truth, courage, hope and faith.

THE MODERN JUDAS.

There is no man of modern times who speaks with such supreme power as he who dictates the management of a great newspaper. The secret of the power to bless or the power to damn the life of man is his.

He is the minister of the most high God charged with keeping the sacred fires of truth burning along the world's highways that sweep through darkness into the infinite and eternal.

He who betrays this solemn trust is the Judas Iscariot of modern times. For, charged with the life of those to whom he ministers, he betrays innocence and weakness for the sake of filthy gain. Charged with protecting the wayfarer, he is the friend of highwayman and assassin.

I wish we could say that no such paper throws its accursed shadows across our daily life. But we have them. We certainly have at least one conspicuous example in New York, and there are many smaller lights that trim their lamps by its standards. It is the evil genius in fact that, with its single red eye, has thrown its spell over thousands of bright minds. What are the simple facts in the history of this journal which finds its way even into many Christian homes in our midst? It is a great daily Police Gazette. Crime, slander, scandal and criminal "sport" are the staple. These fill the choicest positions. The record of a prize fight takes precedence over the words of any statesman or philanthropist.

THE FRIEND OF CRIME.

This paper poses as the exponent of civic and political virtue. The record of its columns shows that it has been the friend and public champion of nearly every great thief and scoundrel who has figured in the disgrace of New York during the past generation. It even proposed to canonize its ideal statesman, William M. Tweed, before his death. But Mr. Tweed left his country for his country's good before they had time to make the cast of his image for the pedestal.

During this period it has sought to assassinate the character of every great man, upon whose success its malignant eye has rested, if it dared. And there are but few things in this line it has not dared. The greatest compliment ever paid a distinguished president of the United States is that this editor hates him so intensely that he publicly curses him every day in the year. Future generations, therefore, even more than his own, will "love him for the enemies he has made." To be praised by such a power is to be damned. To be cursed and slandered by it is a sure index to honesty, integrity, worth, manhood.

AN INTELLECTUAL PROSTITUTE.

It poses as the friend of the workingman, and in every battle for life and progress it is found on the side of the strong against the weak. It is the self styled defender of womanhood, and yet fills its news columns with such unutterable filth that no decent woman can touch it without contamination.

Its news is gathered with consummate skill and edited with unquestioned genius. It is therefore the most brilliant example we have of a shameless, intellectual prostitute.

It has much to say on religion. It champions ultra-orthodoxy, knowing that its readers have long since abandoned such positions, hoping thus to destroy the faith of man and deceive the feeble minded.

A BRILLIANT SUNFLOWER.

It studies the brightest dreams of the social and religious reformer, that with the hot breath of materialism it may blast every aspiration of man for a larger and fuller life.

In other words, to change the figure, it is the most brilliant SUN-flower that blossoms today in the dung heap of modern civilization. Its color is as gorgeous as its perfume is fetid. Its roots take hold upon the saloon, the gambling hell, the dive, the brothel, and from them draws their richest life. When the streets and sewers of our civic life are flushed with pure water it will disappear with the filth from which it sprang.

It is unnecessary to mention the name of this paper. If you have ever seen it you will recognize it from this description. If you have never seen it you are fortunate, and I have no desire to introduce you to vice.

Suffice it to say, Christian men and women, you should no more take such a sheet into your home than you would tear the festering rags from the dead body of a leper and wrap them around the body of a newborn babe.

WHY WE KNOW THAT JESUS ROSE FROM THE DEAD.

God, having of old time spoken unto the fathers in the prophets by divers portions and in divers manners, hath at the end of these days spoken unto us in his son, whom he appointed heir of all things.—Hebrews i, 1, 2.

We have seen that the morality of the Bible is its final morality, and that the sum of this moral teaching is found in Jesus Christ. The Bible and the Bible alone is the religion of Protestants, because the Bible records for us the life of Jesus Christ. We have just celebrated the most joyous festival in the calendar of the Christian year. We have proclaimed in song and prayer that he has risen. In notes of joy and triumph we have celebrated this the gladdest event in the history of the human race. This note of joy and of triumph over the resurrection of Christ is in perfect harmony with the early thought of the followers of Christ. Early Christianity was pitched in the key of highest joy and triumph. It centered around the person of Christ. The disciples were swept for the moment outside of themselves by the overwhelming joy of the thought that Jesus—their Friend, their Saviour, their Master—whom they had thought dead, had risen again. Their hearts leap with gladness, with inexpressible hope at the glorious thought. And know the secret of this joy. They were not rejoicing over the deliverance of a dogma or a scheme of doctrine or a creed. They did not rejoice as they looked back and remembered the perfection of the system of sacred theology which he had delivered. They rejoiced in the person of Christ. They were not philosophic adherents or admirers. They were friends, followers, lovers of his person. They rejoiced because their master and friend had risen.

"CHRISTIANITY IS CHRIST."

A short time ago we are told that a great apostle of positivism astonished the world by declaring that he had been a Christian in his youth and had given up Christianity. He then proceeded with the utmost simplicity to disclose that by being a Christian in his youth he meant that when he was a boy he held certain metaphysical dogmas regarding the creation of the universe and the nature of the soul. The trouble with the man simply was he never had any Christianity to abandon. A man cannot give up what he has not. No, the fact is that "Christianity is Christ." To be a Christian is to possess the spirit of Christ, to partake of his nature, to be a partaker in the most divinely intimate sense of his personality. He is the very essence of Christianity. In him is life and light. He that believeth into Christ is a Christian, and only he who believeth into him, who partakes of his life and purpose, and is thus a personal follower of the person of Christ, can lay any claim to a knowledge of Christianity.

And if this personal revelation be thus the essential element of Christianity, around the person of Christ clusters all the great problems of the Christian world and the Christian heart. And before the events of his life we must stand and confront all the questions asked by human philosophy and human science, and men have asked today with bald earnestness the question, "Did he rise from the dead?" With all my soul I believe it. And I believe that every Christian should be able to give a reason for the hope that is in him.

Let us simply review then, this morning, briefly the reasons why we know that Jesus Christ did rise from the dead.

We know it.

First—From invincible, historic testimony to the fact of his life, crucifixion, death and resurrection.

We have historical evidence in the history of the Hebrew race in the first place. The history of Israel is a miracle in the story of humanity. View it from whatever point you please, there is no theory of mere rationalism or of mythology that can explain the simple facts of Jewish history. There is but one sane explanation, and that is that the people of Israel were a chosen people. Their history is unique in the history of mankind. It has no parallel and cannot be interpreted by the ordinary laws under which nations have had their rise and development.

THREE HUNDRED AND THIRTY-THREE PROPHECIES FULFILLED.

Far back in the past there rose the race of prophets whose language pointed forward to the coming of this mysterious personage. We read the Twenty-second Psalm and find the description of his death. You must leap the chasm of a thousand years from the date of that Psalm to find the explanation of its phraseology.

In the life of Jesus Christ there were fulfilled three hundred and thirty-three groups of prophecy from the ancient history of the Jews. Three hundred and thirty-three distinct groups of prophetic utterances were fulfilled in his life, and within these separate groups there were smaller groups of specific prophecies which were literally fulfilled, which would raise the possibility of such events happening by chance to such a point that it passes the power of the mind of man to believe such things could happen by chance.

And then we have the witness of his followers, who were at first surprised at the thought of his resurrection. They tell the story with the utmost simplicity. Without entering into minute details, without straining for effect, without making any effort to impress the world with its dramatic importance, they stand forth as the simple witnesses of facts which they observe. They declare that during forty days he appeared on distinct occasions, under different circumstances, to different groups of the disciples, on one occasion to as many as five hundred. These facts were proclaimed through the First century of Christianity and remained undisputed. They remained undisputed until centuries afterward, when before them was written the question mark of the skeptic, who had no sympathy for or knowledge of the Christ, or of the truths which he taught, and was therefore utterly incompetent as a critic.

JESUS SAID SO.

Second—We know that Jesus rose from the dead, because he said he would rise. It is so because Jesus said so.

The witness of such a man is invincible evidence of truth. There are certain tests which render testimony invulnerable. By every such test the word of Jesus stands. In the first place, there is unity and consistency in the whole of his testimony. The story of his life presents a uniform and consistent unfolding of a sublime principle of a kingdom invisible, eternal, which he came to establish on the earth in utter conflict with all the powers of his day. He was perfectly willing to die by that teaching as he had lived by it. And when the hour came he calmly turned his face toward Jerusalem in spite of the protests of his followers, was tried, condemned

MINGO.

Bradly Deuning, of McKoy, in this county, is taking a Business Course at the National Pen Art Hall and Business College, Delaware, Ohio. He reports very favorably of the school.

Mr. Lewis Jernigan, died last week with pneumonia. He was about 70 years old.

Last Tuesday and Friday night we had heavy rain and hail. Some of the largest we ever saw; some 1¼ inches in diameter. At some places the stones are reported as having been as large hen's eggs. Through the edge of Cumberland, Harnett and Johnson counties the hail was so heavy and thick that it beat the boughs off the trees.

Mingo Union met at Spring Hill on the 6th inst. It adopted resolutions endorsing the St. Louis Platform, and others of importance, which will not be made public. It recommended to the County and State Alliance to establish some uniform plan for raising funds for the purpose of aiding those who meet with losses.

We hope our friends will be on hand at the primaries. This is very important for every one interested in good government. It is necessary for those asking for relief. Come out friends!

MINGO.

WESTBROOK'S.

The whole community was shocked by the sudden death of Mr. Geo. McLamb, who passed off the stage of action on the 20th inst. Mr. McLamb had been in feeble health for some time, but was thought to be improving at the time of his death. He ate a hearty supper the night of his death. He leaves a wife and family and a host of relatives and friends to mourn their loss. Uncle George, as he was generally called by the people who knew him, was industrious, energetic and peaceful. The record which he has left will be long remembered as one of piety, nobleness of heart and christian charity. On the evening of the evening of the 28th inst. his funeral was preached by Rev. Lundee Lee, who did justice to the occasion. After which his remains were conveyed to the family grave-yard, where he was placed to remain till the great ressurrection day.

Mr. D. B. Sutton and three other young men, a few days ago, kill thirty-five rabbits in 4 hours. That is hard to beat.

Mr. J. B. Daughtry has a calf which he claims can trot a mile in three and three-quarter minutes.

We are glad to know that Mr. R. W. Lindsay, who has been talking of going to Goldsboro for some time, has concluded to stay with us another year.

We know a man in our vicinity who does nothing but grumble. That is not the best plan That is not the best plan, but perhaps he will not grumble when he sees this.

Do you know the importance of attending the primaries? This is to be the most important of our elections. You, and every man is false to himself and his country if he does not take an interest in it. Then see that your friends and neighbors attend the primaries. Speak to them the next time you see them and be sure to be on hand yourself.

SOMETHING INTERESTING TO THOSE WHO TILL THE SOIL.

"There is no material progress that is well based and permanent without agricultural progress."

It is said there is danger in breeding from blind mares.

Save the best hay for the season when your horses will have to work hardest.

A road bed with water sweeping through it cannot furnish a good road.

If an asparagus bed is made properly and well taken care of, it will last a life time and longer.

The best poultry breed is the one you have tested and tried and is best adapted to your purpose.

Two by four inch scantlings placed two feet from the ground or floor make good perches for fowls.

By keeping fowls through the winter in good condition their usefulness in the spring is greatly increased.

If you have bad roads one step towards improvement is to open up all ditches now so there is no standing water on the roadside.

Competition is the great trouble in the way of farmers. And there is but one way out; reduce the cost of production by better methods, and growing more per acre.

Apples grown in grass ground will keep longer than the same fruit grown on cultivated land. Late keeping varieties, therefore, should always be grown on grass lands.
